"Your work is going to fill a large part of your life, and the only way to be truly satisfied is to do what you believe is great work. And the only way to do great work is to love what you do." Steve Job

A Message to My Lovely Students!

Dear students, listen closely, here's a tale to hear,
Of dreams that rise like dawn, so crystal clear.

In the world of learning, the journey is long,
But each step you take makes you mighty and strong.

The road may be rocky, the path not always bright,
But remember, dear learners, you hold the light.
Each book that you open, each lesson you learn,
Is a spark of wisdom, a flame that will burn.

Education is not just a task to be done,
It's the key to your future, your race to run.
With every question asked, with every answer you find,
You're building a future, expanding your mind.

Believe in yourself, let no doubts arise,
For success lies in the effort, not in the size.
So study with passion, let your knowledge soar
And remember, dear students, there's always more!

MIRACULOUS TIPS FOR SCORING GOOD IN ACADEMICS EVERYONE MUST KNOW

When it comes to success, everyone wants to be successful in life and have a bright future, Recently the phenomenon of definition of success and its corresponding effects has sparked a heated debate. Although contested by many that achieving professional and academic targets is highly beneficial, such issue is regarded thoroughly as both constructive and positive by a substantial number of individuals. I am inclined to believe that professional and academic success can be a plus and I will analyse that throughout this blog.

Academic success could never be fully measured by degrees alone, but it can include a person's well-being as well as their mind and certain characteristics about a person that make them unique. This success can be achieved in different ways by these different people with different strengths, but there is the same ultimate goal in sight of each and every student enrolled in college at some point. However, this goal of being successful in not only school but in life, can sometimes turn out to be our learning about moral values. Success, both in career and academics, does not come easy nor it happens overnight. It requires preparation, hard work, dedication and discipline. It also entails knowing your strengths, weaknesses, and knowing yourself. By succeeding in school, it also opens doors to a wide range of opportunities in the career world. Continuing academic readiness is consistently seeking advancement in one's education in preparation for any academic challenges along the way. There are few main aspects that contribute which are as follows.

- Having a clear plan. The first thing you can do to have a successful life is to lay out a plan. ...
- Prioritising your goals. ...
- Acquiring relevant education and skills. ...
- Cultivating good habits. ...
- Having a positive attitude. ...
- Learning from your mistakes. ...
- Being open to new things. ...
- Taking risks...

Desiring academic success and working hard for it are two different things. The majority of students want academic success and will have an aspiration to achieve it. However, when it comes to the workload, some students will often not put in as much effort and motivation tends to lack. Therefore, if an individual wants to achieve academic success, they must not only consider it but also strive for it. Although, it is understandable that working hard can be very difficult during the school year. I take my time out to help them with their problems. My intellectual skills have launched my student life to places I couldn't have dreamed. Despite my academic success, I have been struggling to balance my academic life over my social life. Sometimes, I feel that one should dominate over the other, preferably the academics over the social. And to complicate the issue, my intuition and determination has caused me to gain attention among others, forcing me to adopt some social skills.

As a student that has achieved a high-level of academic success while staying active in extra-curricular activities and working a job, I have faced a daily challenge of balancing the workload. From a social perspective, I feel it is important to be active in a variety of extra-curricular activities; however, from an academic perspective it is critical to put in the time necessary to maintain good grades.

Not every learning technique works for every student, so it is important to figure out what type of learner you are. You could be:

- A visual learner who prefers to study by looking at information
- An auditory learner who prefers to listen to information when studying
- A kinaesthetic learner who prefers hands-on learning, such as participating in activities or solving real-world problems

Once you find out what type of learner you are, you can experiment to find out which learning technique works best for you.

1. Make the Most of Class Time

Attend all class sessions, pay close attention to the lectures, and take notes in a way that makes sense for you. The goal is to be able to understand your notes when you review them later.

If you are participating in a digital classroom session, make sure you meet the technical requirements of the course by checking your internet connection, and having the recommended or required equipment, such as a laptop, second monitor, and headphones to help you.

“Taking good notes means you pay more attention during class,” suggests Oliver, a Chinese international student at the University of Kansas. “When you prepare for the test, it will be really helpful.” And if something does not make sense, raise your hand and ask, or make a note to follow up with your professor or teacher assistant (also known as a TA) after class.

2. Study with Classmates

In addition to making friends, forming study groups in each of your classes is a valuable — and fun — way to review for tests. Working together helps develop good study habits, increases collaboration on group projects, and boosts confidence. “Find a partner to compare notes with,” Oliver adds. “You can work together, study together, help each other, and push each other to be better.”

It is also important to make sure you and your study partners discuss relevant topics and stay focused!

3. Take Advantage of Office Hours

If you are having trouble with a concept or topic, your professors can help. Stop by during their office hours or email questions to your professor to understand the class material better, gain helpful tips on how to prepare for your exams or write a better essay. You will also create a relationship with your instructor that could lead to a valuable mentorship.

TIP: If it is written on the board, add it to your notes. It just might be on the test.

4. Create Flashcards

It may be helpful to rewrite important facts, concepts, and definitions on flashcards. Flashcards also let you quiz yourself without the help of others. Digital flashcards and learning apps can also assist with organizing and reviewing course material.

समय का सम्मान

अपने जीवन में लगा कर रखो तुम अलार्म
भैया समय का करो तुम सम्मान।

समय को तुम न व्यर्थ गवाओ,
मेहनत करो और अपने लक्ष्य को पाजाओ।

समय से पहले ना सुबह होती,
ना होती समय से पहले शाम।

समय तो सबके लिए बराबर है,
बस उसके महत्व को तू जान।

समय की तू कदर कर,
समय तेरी कदर करेगा।

चट्टानों के बीच दबा कोयला,
एक दिन हीरा जरूर बनेगा।

सीपियों पर अगर न गिरा,
तो क्या तू बरसाना बंद कर देगा।
केले पर गिर कर भी तू कपूर जरूर बनेगा।

तेरी साहस कि परीक्षा का प्रमाण वो तो वक्त ही बताएगा,
असल ता छू लेगी तुझे अगर तू घबरा जाएगा।

समय की पाबंदी ना होने पर,
चिंती दिवारो से भी गिर जाती है।

वर्षा का एहसास होने पर,
वो तो चट्टानों पर भी चढ़ जाती है।

समय का महत्व वो खरगोश भी बता सकता है
जो समय नष्ट करने पर एक कछुवे से हार जाता है।

समय का महत्व वही जानता है
जो इस फालतू में गवाता है।

जिन्होंने ने भी समय का पालन किया वो तो महान बन जाते हैं।

Chill in the Air, Warmth in Our Hearts – Stay Safe This Winter!

- Students should wear proper winter school uniform.
- Fog may affect visibility. Students should leave earlier to avoid being late, wear bright clothing and be cautious while walking to school.
- Cold weather can lead to health issues like cold-related injuries (frostbite or hypothermia), so it's important that students stay warm. If students show signs of feeling unwell or cold, they should immediately seek help.
- Winter is also flu season. Encourage students to practice good hygiene, such as washing hands frequently, wearing masks when necessary and avoiding close contact with others if they are sick.
- Stay safe, and stay warm!
